ST KILDA JUNCTION PEDESTRIAN UNDERPASS

After heavy lobbying by JAAG, at long last a real breakthrough has been made to get St Kilda Junction's notorious pedestrian underpass cleaned-up with the aim to improve the perception of safety and deter anti-social behaviour.

At a recent meeting organised by Prahran MP, Clem Newton Brown, with representatives from State Government's Public Transport, VicRoads and JAAG, the government agreed to spend $60,000 to upgrade the lighting within the walkways of the tunnels.
